The Story of a Much-Loved Coastal Home..

“Moving to Penrhiw in 2004 was one of the best decisions we made as a family. We were keen to be closer to relatives in Freshwater East, whilst giving our young children the opportunity to grow up surrounded by the coast and countryside. From the moment we arrived, it felt like home, and over the years it has provided us with a wonderful lifestyle in one of Pembrokeshire’s most desirable seaside villages.

Occupying an elevated position, Penrhiw enjoys lovely sea views and a setting just a short walk from the beach. We have spent countless days making the most of everything the area has to offer, from beach walks with the dog and kayaking on the water, to fishing trips and simply enjoying quality time outdoors. The coastal scenery and the sense of community in Freshwater East have made living here incredibly special.

The house itself has adapted beautifully to family life. With five generous bedrooms and three bathrooms, it has always offered the space and practicality we needed, whilst still feeling warm and welcoming. The open-plan living, dining and kitchen area has very much been the hub of the home, where family and friends naturally gather. The sliding doors to the front allow the views to be enjoyed throughout the seasons, whether relaxing by the fire in winter or opening the room up on warmer days. The kitchen has been at the centre of daily life, complemented by a useful utility and shower room that has proved invaluable over the years.

We have taken great pride in improving and modernising the property during our time here, ensuring it remained both comfortable and functional. One of the most valuable features has been the adjoining accommodation, which has offered real flexibility. Initially considered for family use, it later became a successful holiday let, demonstrating the versatility of the layout. Equally, it could be ideal for multi-generational living or guest accommodation.

Outside, the gardens have brought us just as much enjoyment as the house itself. The patio has been a wonderful place for summer gatherings, while the garden room with its wood-burning stove has been used for hobbies, quiet relaxation and entertaining alike. The swim spa has been a fantastic addition and something we have enjoyed throughout the year. With parking for several vehicles and a detached garage, the practical elements of the property have always matched the lifestyle it offers.

Penrhiw has been a happy and much-loved family home where so many memories have been made. Whilst we are now moving to be closer to family once again, this house will always hold a special place in our hearts. We hope the next owners will enjoy everything it has given us, from the space and flexibility of the home itself to the exceptional coastal setting that makes it so unique. We are certain it will offer them many happy years and treasured memories of their own."

Location

Freshwater East is a well-regarded seaside village set within the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park, known for its wide sandy beach, scenic bays and access to some of the county's finest coastal walks. The village offers parking facilities, public conveniences and the popular Freshwater Inn. The historic town of Pembroke lies approximately four miles away, providing a broader range of shops, services and amenities, with public transport links connecting neighbouring towns and villages including Pembroke Dock and Lamphey. The Wales Coast Path also passes through the area, making it an excellent base for those who enjoy the outdoors.

Agent Comments

"Penrhiw commands an elevated position in one of Pembrokeshire's most sought-after coastal locations, enjoying an impressive outlook towards the sea and a setting within easy reach of the beach below. This is a home of genuine flexibility, offering substantial accommodation that can adapt to a variety of requirements, whether as a spacious permanent residence, a multi-generational home or a high-quality coastal escape. The design of the property lends itself particularly well to modern living, with bright reception space orientated to capture the views, whilst the additional adjoining accommodation creates valuable options for independent living, guest use or supplementary income potential, subject to any necessary consents.

Combined with attractive gardens, excellent parking provision and a range of lifestyle features, Penrhiw is a rare opportunity to secure a versatile home in an exceptional coastal setting."

Additional Information

We are advised that the property benefits from mains services, together with 16 installed solar panels. Heating is provided via an LPG central heating system, with drainage to a private septic tank. Electric vehicle charging point installed.
